What do you need ?

Every room in your home serves its own unique purpose—and that means each window needs something a little different. But how do you know what to use where?

It's simple: think about how and when you spend time in each room.

Spruce up your wide windows with vertical blinds (page 8).

durability

Faux wood blinds (page 10) withstand your bathroom's humid air.

Energy + your windows

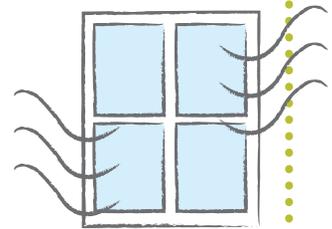

The average U.S. household uses 42% of its energy on space heating and 6% on cooling.*

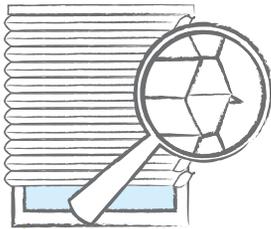

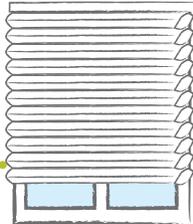

That means nearly half of what you pay on your monthly bills goes toward keeping your house at a comfortable temperature.

Your windows may have a great view, but they also let heat out—and that heat loss can account for 10% to 25% of your heating bill.*

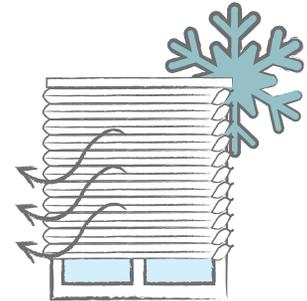

Luckily, Bali DiamondCell™ Cellular Shades are built to help insulate.

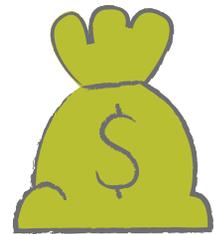

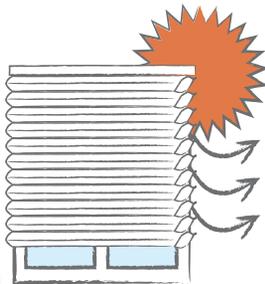

Their honeycomb-shaped cells trap air to keep heat from escaping out in the winter...

...which means they reduce winter heat loss by up to 22%.

And they can block the sun's rays, so they also slash summer heat gain by up to 56%.

The bottom line? Covering your windows with Bali Cellular Shades will help you save money on your monthly bills.

Combination Shades with Cordless Lift: 1-in Pleated Shade: Westport, Bone 3101 (top) and $\frac{3}{8}$ -in Double Cell Cellular Shades: Libretto, Birdbath 2055 (bottom)

Bali Cellular Shades are much more than colorful, appealing fabric. They keep light out, they protect privacy, they absorb sound, and—most importantly—their honeycomb-shaped cells trap air to help insulate your home and save money on your energy bills all year long.

- Nearly 200 fabric possibilities, from classic neutrals to on-trend colors and patterns
- Four opacity options and three cell size choices
- Cordless and motorized lift options are safer alternatives to standard operating cords
- VertiCell™ Cellular Shades for wide windows (photo on page 9) are made of the same fabric—great for easy coordination

What's our most energy efficient option? Definitely the Midnight collection. This innovative blackout fabric is constructed of three layers—an insulating blackout liner sandwiched between soft spunlace. It's especially popular for bedrooms and media rooms, but works in any room that needs insulation, light control, and privacy.

I need... a glamorous look for my living room.

2-in Northern Heights Wood Blinds with Cordless Lift/Wand Tilt and 3-½-in Traditional Valance: Rustic Lodge 1702

You don't need an unlimited budget to impress your houseguests. A few décor touches should do the trick—and nothing spells luxury quite like the relaxed natural charm of real wood. Set the scene with Bali Northern Heights™ Wood Blinds. They're simple, they're timeless, and they'll make your windows the unpretentious star of any room. Wood is a natural insulator, so they'll also help keep your home cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

- Crafted from sustainably harvested, 100% North American hardwood
- The paints, stains, and unique finishes are designed to blend seamlessly with existing finishes on trim, flooring, cabinets, and furniture
- Different slat sizes give you different ways to perfect your look and your view

Need a fancy finishing touch? Our wood cornices cover headrails and hardware, and they're available in all the same paints and stains as our wood blinds.

2-in Wood Blinds with Cord Lift/Motorized Tilt and 5-1/2-in Noble Cornice: Koala 1761

We care about the environment as much as we care about making your home look good. That's why we craft Bali Wood Blinds from eco-friendly materials.

Our wood is responsibly harvested through sustainable yield forest management, a technique that makes sure the amount of wood harvested is far below the levels of growth. We're not just taking trees out of the forest—we're making sure that more trees are growing in their place.

It's also local. Our processing plant in Grayling, Mich. sources wood directly from nearby lumber mills. Less travel distance for raw materials equals lower carbon emissions.

Safety is always in style.

Revamping your living room is exciting. Bringing a bold new color to your bedroom windows might be your favorite home décor project of the year. But nothing is ever as important as your family's safety.

As an industry leader, we've always worked to make sure our window treatments are as safe as they are eye-catching. Now, we're proud to participate in the Best for Kids certification program. This program identifies window treatments that are best suited for homes with young children, so it's easier for you to shop without worrying. Simply put, Best for Kids means best for your family.

Our custom window treatments offer two types of control that are certified Best for Kids:

- Cordless control is exactly what it sounds like: control minus the standard operating cords you're used to. You can adjust these window treatments using easy-to-grasp, conveniently placed handles (or a wand).
- Motorized control is cordless control's cooler cousin. Like cordless control, it eliminates standard operating cords. But it also adds a remote—so all you have to do is push a button to watch your window treatment move.

Discover your design

The newest trend in home décor is pretty straightforward: toss out every trend you've read about and find something that feels true to you. Of course, that's easier said than done—so here are some pointers on things we love right now.

The earthy combo of natural neutrals, organic textures, and warm metal accents will make your guests feel right at home.

Want a smart home? Start with motorized control, which adjusts your Bali blinds and shades with the touch of a button. Motorized lift raises shades, and motorized tilt moves blind slats. Bonus: fewer standard operating cords means it's a safer choice for homes with kids and pets.

If you're seeking sleek protection from the sun, look no further than Bali Solar Shades. These modern multitaskers keep glare off your screens, block furniture-damaging UV rays, and help lower your air conditioning costs—all while still letting you see out the window.

- Solar fabric is available in a variety of openness levels and colors, so you can control light exactly how you want
- Four control options include cordless lift and motorized lift

A solar fabric's openness level tells you what percentage of UV rays it blocks. For example, a fabric with 3% openness lets in 3% of the rays and keeps the remaining 97% at bay.

Drapery comes with a ton of extra benefits. It adds color, sure, but it also blocks more light, muffles more sound, and helps reduce heat loss. Think about how you want your room to look, because drapery can make a huge difference there, too—for example, mounting panels just a few inches above your window will make the whole room feel taller.

Inside mount window treatments are installed inside the window casing.

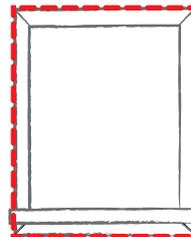

Outside mount window treatments are mounted outside the window casing and provide better privacy and light control. They're mounted directly on the wall or the window molding.

2 Measure

For inside mounts, measure the depth of your window frame. Then, measure the inside of the frame in three places for width and height.

For outside mounts, measure the overall area to be covered.

3 Record Your Measurements

For inside mounts, record the narrowest width and the longest height.

For outside mounts, add extra inches to the width and height for optimum light control and privacy.
